This course will survey colonial American history beginning in pre-Columbian America and ending around 1800. We will focus primarily on the major conflicts of this period: contact and conquest, colonialism, slavery and race, the meaning of the American Revolution and its immediate aftermath in both the newly established United States and the rest of the world. The course centers on the North American colonies but it takes a decidedly “Atlantic” approach. As an introductory-level survey, this course assumes students have had no prior experience with college-level historical study. The intention is for students to establish a general narrative of American history to 1800, to learn how historians have constructed this narrative, and what challenges there are to doing so.

Required Readings:
- Susanna Rowson, Slaves in Algiers or, A Struggle for Freedom (Copley Edition)
Assignments: The assignments for this course are designed to highlight different skill sets in historical writing. During the quarter there will be four writing assignments that analyze primary sources from Early America. You are required to do THREE of the four. The Midterm and Final Exam will focus half on lectures and half on the reading. If you only go to lecture and ignore the reading, or do the reading and miss lecture, you will find it very difficult to pass the course. Sections are required and participation is essential. More than three unexcused absences will result in failure for that percentage of your grade. Remember, if you do not read the textbook, my lectures will likely not make sense to you.

1. Participation in section is required (20% of grade)
2. Midterm Exam (20% of grade)
3. Assignment One (10% of grade)
4. Assignment Two (10% of grade)
5. Assignment Three (10% of grade)
6. Final Exam (30% of grade)

You are responsible for the readings and assignments listed before your weekly sections as indicated after the Monday readings on the course schedule. For example, everyone is responsible for the first week’s reading listed under September 26, including the 10:00 Monday sections. Hand in your assignments to you T.A. before section begins.

Academic Honesty: Students may work in groups and are encouraged to discuss paper topics. However, they are to write their own essays. If you copy material from assigned or unassigned texts you must cite the source by using quotation marks and indicating where the material came from. Every essay can be written using assigned readings or primary source documents. The short written assignments are intended to provide you with the freedom to explore your own interests. However, this places a great deal of responsibility on you to act honestly. In-class exams are closed book with no texts or crib sheets.

Integrity of scholarship is what makes an academic community work. The University requires both faculty and students to honor this principle. Students are required to do their own academic work without any unauthorized aid. Faculty are required to report any suspicion of cheating, collusion, or plagiarism to the Academic Integrity Coordinator. For University guidelines see http://www.senate.ucsd.edu/manual/appendices/app2.htm and for History department guidelines see http://historyweb.ucsd.edu/pages/undergraduate/Current/plagiarism.htm.
